CAFÉ RACER, a new quarterly guide from the US that focuses on the Café Racers, classic bikes, specials, hybrids, British iron, European, streetfighters & high performance motorcycles. The fanzine also devotes itself to the history, culture & lifestyle of these unique & special interest motorcycles.

The hip-pocket size 6" x 9" format magazine is the first-ever publication devoted the Vincents, Nortons, BSAs, Triumphs and other legendary motorcycles that combined with the era's British black leather, Brylcreem® and rock-n-roll to create one of the most adrenaline-charged youth movements ever. Each issue of Café Racer will also explore the world of modern performance naked bikes, from wild, custom-built streetfighters to the latest factory naked and retro machines. It's that culture and lifestyle that fuels a worldwide cult for the naked bike enthusiast, whether classic, ultra-modern or somewhere in between.

Magazine founder and editor Mike Seate is an expert on the cult of the cafe racer, also serving as host of the upcoming Chet Burks/Speed Channel high-definition documentary, "Cafe Society," to be broadcast in the fall of 2008. Seate has authored over a dozen motorcycling books including "Two Wheels on Two Reels" and "Choppers." He is an award-winning columnist for the Pittsburgh Tribune-Review and a contributing editor for Motorcyclist magazine.

Café Racer's debut issue features a Vincent Specials Round-Up, including test-rides of Hailwood Motorcycle Restoration's Egli-Vincent and Norvin; A Rocker's Tale: road histories from veterans who lived and rode in the ton-up era; Rocker Films Review; Spotted Bikes from around the world; Café Racers: a regular feature about people who make motorcycling worthwhile; a column on the history of transport cafes by Ace Café London's Linda Wilsmore and useful tech information, two-wheeled travel features, black leather news and more.

The launch will also be followed up by the book "Café Racer" which will be available from November.
